Carmel Artists Enjoy Studio Tea

At a charmingly appointed studio tea and informal reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Paul K. Mays on Thursday afternoon about seventy of Carmel's art coterie were afforded an opportunity to bid bon voyage to Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Botke, who leave in another week for an extended sojourn in Europe.

The affair was in the nature of a housewarming, as the Mays have recently returned to Carmel after a year and a half in New York and Los Angeles, where Mr. Mays was again assistant mural decorator of the new Grauman theater William Lee Wollett, whose latest creation is in direct line with the former two in Los Angeles and Hollywood and the last word in modern symbolism in American art and architecture.

The guests were afforded a view of twenty-five selected paintings from Mr. Mays' studies around Monterey, which are to be on exhibition next week at the Steudahl gallery, Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles, and two beautifully designed hope chests, rich in treatment and finish, which also will be sent south.

Assisting towards the success of the afternoon were Mrs. E. L. Moore, mother of the hostess, Mrs. Herman Spoehr, Mrs. Belle Kluegel, Mrs. Y. F. Swain and Miss Elliott Boke.

Mr. Mays will have his studio at home in the stone house near Thirteenth, on Dolores. He will be instructor in the summer school of the Arts and Crafts and private pupils have already begun their classes.

Monterey Peninsula Loses Old Pioneer

Last Sunday evening, at his home on San Carlos avenue, John L. Williams breathed his last. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for some time.

John Williams was one of the old-timers on the Monterey peninsula. He and his wife came to Pacific Grove twenty-five years ago and moved over to Carmel nineteen years ago. They lived first in what is now the Kimball house, near the Paradise Park tract, and a short time afterwards built their home, "Mountain View."

Mr. Williams was born 73 years ago in England. At an early age he arrived in New York and went into the grocery business, which line he followed off and on all his life.

The funeral was held from Freeman's parlors in Monterey on Tuesday morning, thence to San Carlos church. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery San Francisco.

Campbell Wins Case For Morgan

The three-cornered controversy involving the ownership of the Carmel postoffice building has been adjusted out of court.

The parties to the dispute were T. W. Morgan Jr., represented by attorney Argyll Campbell; W. H. Abbott of Pebble Beach, represented by Fred Treat, and T. A. Oakes of Santa Cruz, represented by Hudson, Martin & Jorgenson.

The settlement resulted in the new building being turned over to Morgan, who now has clear title thereto.

The case is said to have been one of the most complicated that these attorneys ever had to contend with, and the settlement out of court was a distinct surprise to those interested.

Carmel Hill Will Receive Attention

The Pine Cone's "squak" in a recent issue, concerning bad road conditions on Carmel Hill, entitled "Do Not Pass the Buck, Gentlemen," is bearing fruit.

Supervisor J. L. D. Roberts announces that within a short time work will begin on the improvement and repair of the road between here and Monterey.

On the curved parts of the road on the Carmel side of the hill twenty-two inch high fences will be erected, for which San Trancr will supply the redwood posts.

The highway will be fully repaired as far ae the Carmel Mission—that is, the portion over which the county has jurisdiction It will be up to the city to that portion within the municipality.

Next month the Robinson canyon road, now being fenced, will be open for travel. The road is now passable but will not be bridged until later.

New Art-Craft Shop Locates on Peninsula

The Parkhurst Forge Inc. of New York City have completed arrangements with Wm H. McConnel of the Light and Heat Shop of Monterey to represent them in this vicinity.

The designer of the organization is Cliff Parkhurst, son of the late Thos. S. Parkhurst of the Highlands. The younger Parkhurst has become a property owner at the Highlands and will do considerable of his creative work on designs in his new studio, as well as give personal attention to this branch of the business until a factory which is contemplated here is decided upon.

Gene Byrnes and His Reg'lar Fellers Are Now Incorporated

To promote the sale, circulation and popularity of Eugene Byrnes' cartoons, caricatures, paintings, drawings, writings and books, the Gene Byrnes Co. of Carmel by the Sea has been incorporated, articles having been filed at the county clerk's office early this week.

Eugene Byrnes, Pearl Byrnes and Argyll Campbell are the incorporators and directors. The capital stock is $25,000, fully subscribed at $10 per share.

"Reg'lar Fellers," Gene Byrnes' creation, are already very popular fellers, each morning greeting thousands of newspaper readers throughout the United States and Canada.

Some idea of what a busy man Mr. Byrnes is may be gleaned from the knowledge that he draws a comic strip for every day in the year, Sundays excepted; for the Sunday issues he makes a whole page—52 a year.

Byrnes' creations may shortly appear oin the silver screen.

After a delightful three months in Carmel Helen Rosenkrans and Eleanor Abercrombie left Friday for their home in Eau Claire, Wisconsin. Brief stops will be made in San Francisco and points in Colorado. Miss Rosenkrans and Miss Abercrombie have come to feel themselves real Carmelites, this being their second visit here, and before leaving they purchased a lot on Mission Point, hoping to return next autumn to erect a home thereon.

Board of Trustees Have Busy Session

With the exception of Trustee W. L. Maxwell all the trustees were on hand at the regular monthly meeting last Tuesday night.

H. D. Severance was appointed city engineer, vice Henry B. Fisher, resigned, The latter was tendered a vote of thanks for his services. The engineer's compensation will be $50 for each case, plus seven per cent, in which is included two per cent as fee to the city attorney.

It was decided to improve one block on Dolores street from Ocean avenue to Seventh street, and one block on Seventh street between San Carlos and Dolores. The city attorney is now drawing the legal papers.

The improvement will include grading, graveling and gutters.

It was suggested that the city engineer prepare a sectional map of the section, containing 800 lots in what is known as Old Carmel, eliminating all present "map" streets. This matter will be discussed with the property owners and brought up at a meeting to be held on Wednesday, May 16.

No definite action was taken concerning the improvement of Eleventh avenue, request for which was made by Mrs. L. Lawson. Other property owners are to be heard in the matter.

J. E. Nichols, fire chief, reported the new hydrants satisfactory. He requested that the shrubbery be cleared away on San Antonio avenue, so that the hydrants could be found at night.

To the fire commissioner was referred, with power to act, the matter of installing a fire alarm signal system.

Egypt is Subject of Illustrated Talk

Egypt, the scene of recent marvelous discoveries being unearthed by scientists, is to be brought home to us next Friday evening at Arts and Crafts hall.

Dr. W. A. Cannon of the Carnegie Institute, who spent several years in Egypt as a member of the American University expedition, is to talk on his experience and observations in that country. The talk will be illustrated by 150 authentic colored lantern slides.

The affair is given for the benefit of the Carmel Church Sunday school building fund. Tickets are now on sale.

Eight Citizens Demand Removal of Taylor

An accusation signed by eight prominent citizens of Monterey county has been filed in the superior court against County Treasurer James Taylor, demanding his removal from office upon specific charges of misconduct in office and neglect of performing official duties.

This is a summary proceeding, and will be determined within 20 days by the court, sitting without a jury. The citation has been issued and served upon Taylor.

The eight men signing the accusation are:

M. A. Holoday, J. M. Storm, M. J. Kavanaugh, Chapman Foster, H. B. Abbott, John Hunter, John McGrury and Ross Nissen.

This is an entirely new proceeding to that in which Taylor was recently acquitted of a charge of misappropriating county funds, and of that still pending, in which he is charged with misappropriating state forestry funds.

Chance to Aid the Carmel Boys Club

By J. M. C.

The week of May 14 to 20 will be celebrated the country over as Boys' Week to arouse an interest amongst our citizens generally to the importance of moral and sympathetic guidance of our boys—who can so easily be led either into right or wrong paths.

If some of the money spent annually on the punishment of crime were spent on the training of scout leaders and on inducing boys to enter healthy organizations where the evil results of wrong-doing could be impressed on them, our country would not only save money but the boys saved from a life of crime, to be useful citizens, would prove an invaluable asset to the land. For years an effort has been made to find a scout leader in Carmel, but with the exception of one short period some years ago no available man has been found.

A small boy, lying prone on a sand pile, absorbed in a book, and the casual remark of someone who knew him that he was a bright boy and fond of reading, but the leader of all the deviltry in Carmel; that his father was dead and his mother a drinker. This was the real beginning of the Carmel Boys' Club early in 1914.

He and a few others were gathered in a private house and read to. His response to sympathetic treatment, his hunger for knowledge and interest in everything done in the little club, was delightful to see. Although turned out of school for bad behavior, he never gave any trouble in the club, and it was with keen regret that we bade him farewell when his mother moved to a northern city. At last accounts he was in high school and doing well.

The club then started grew until the boys reached high school, when it became the Young Mens' Club and the smaller boys were admitted as the Junior Club, meeting on another evening, and with the exception of short intervals the two clubs have continued and flourished to the present time.

Two of the former members are scout leaders in Oakland and are happily married. The boys play games, are read to, hold a short business meeting, which familiarizes them with parliamentary usage, and last, but not by any means least, are fed.

To induce the saving habit records are kept of those who put money in the savings banks, and last year the aggregate was $750; to date this year $415 has been saved. This can be drawn for useful purposes, but is not frittered away.

Now, if someone who reads this would like to show his or her interest in our Carmel boys they can do so in a very practical way. The Carmel church on Lincoln street is building an addition for a Sunday school room and church parlor. Under this room is a large basement, which properly finished and furnished will make a fine community room and gymnasium—not only for the boys, but the girls as well. The church is financing the addition but has no money at present for finishing the basement. All who wish to help celebrate Boys' Week by a donation for their benefit may communicate with Rev. Fred Sheldon or the Pine Cone office.

Building activities in Carmel suffered something of a setback last Tuesday, the opening day of the trout fishing season. Many mechanics took the day off. Other Carmelites who spent the day along the stream included Ernest Schweninger, Harry Aucourt, and Fred Leidig.

Native Sons Statistics Affecting Peninsula

Grant Towle of the local parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West had occasion to visit the county court house in Salinas for the purpose of getting statistics of the number of native born Californians in Monterey and Carmel.

He finds the following facts from the great register of voters in the two cities. In Monterey there were 753 native born voters out of a registration of 1562. Of this number, which averages nearly 50 per cent, the part of Monterey known as the "old town" averaged over 50 per cent, but the new Monterey precincts brought the average down below the half mark.

In Carmel the percentage is much lower. There were 576 registered voters in the two precincts of that city and of that number only 169 were native born Californians. Towle had no figures for Pacific Grove.—Peninsula Herald.

Little Fairies Dance in Glade on May Day

A charming group of fairies visited Miss Blanche Tolmie's outdoor school on May day and danced in the glade for friends of the school. The fairy king and queen were Kevin Wallace and Polly Mays, and the other dancers were Junior and Sylvia Flanner, Ginger and Winnifred Ratliff, Leone Maguire and Valentine Porter. After the May-pole dance the fairies enjoyed a dainty repast prepared for them by Miss Tolmie and Miss Logie.

Eleventh-Hour Snapshot

To complete scenes in The Eleventh Hour, taken here and at Pebble Beach two months ago, the William Fox company was on the peninsula several days this week. This is the picture in which a number of Monterey Hi students took part. The stars are Buck Jones and Shirley Mason. Another movie star here this week was Monte Blue, who registered at La Playa.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

The Latest by the Author of "Tutt and Mr. Tutt"

Writing of Arthur Train's latest book, "His Children's Children," Dr. Henry Van Dyke says in the "New York Herald:"

"Here is a book which does for the New York of our own day what Thackeray's 'Vanity Fair' did for the London of a hundred years ago. It lifts the curtain and shows us in behind the scenes. * * *

"Such a title as 'His Children's Children' gives a writer what he ought to have for the production of a real novel, namely, a good background, a central theme, a considerable liberty in his illustrations and divagations. Mr. Train uses all this to the full. New York, with its seamy side and its embroidered side, is familiar to him. Moreover, he writes good English, clear and forcible, without extravagance."

As An English Statesman See It

"Scribner's" announces "The World Crisis," by Winston Churchill:

"This is an extraordinarily downright and brilliant book by one of the most vivid and original personalities among modern statesmen. No Englishman comparable to Winston Churchill in knowledge or importance has yet written of the war. But even apart from the authority of the author and the importance of his information, this is a most remarkable book by reason of its largeness of vision and the imaginative grasp with which he presents and synthesizes and illuminates the huge spectacle.

"The slow, remorseless gathering of wrath in Europe, the continual aggravation of party strife in England, the growing menace of the German power, the vain efforts of statesmen to avert the catastrophe, the sure and timely precautions which were taken to secure the safety of Britain—all are unfolded by a practised hand. The sequence of tremendous events runs vividly along a thread of personal reminiscence without loss of scale or proportion."

CARMEL'S BIG DAY NEXT AUGUST

Thousands upon thousands of pilgrims, both from within and without the State, will set their faces toward Carmel next August.

On the 28th of that month occurs an anniversary and celebration that is peculiarly Californian, for that day will mark 139 years since [illegible]

Serra was head and front in building the spiritual foundation of California. The work that he and his associates did has had a most profound effect upon life here, and stretches beyond the phase of Spanish history into the present.

Differences of religious faith have no separating effect in celebrations such as will be held at Carmel Mission to commemorate this anniversary. As Californians, on pilgrimage to one of California's shrines, all whose interest in the early history of the State is keen will go.

The resting place of Father Serra is not merely a Catholic shrine, it is a California shrine.

THE LOCAL MERCHANT

He is the chap whose clerks and bookkeepers and other employes live on Monterey Peninsula and spend their money with you and with other Monterey Peninsula people.

He is the chap who pays taxes to help support our schools and build our streets, and maintain our fire departments and police departments and parks and lighting and water service.

He is the chap who helps support our churches and hospitals and charity organizations, and our lodges and commercial clubs, and talks for the Peninsula and boosts for the Peninsula every day in the year.

He is the chap who visits you when you are sick, sends flowers to your family when you die, and follows your body out among the trees and tombs, as far as human feet may travel with the dead.

He is the home merchant—your neighbor—your friend—your helper in times of need.

Don't you think that you ought to trade with him and be his friend and his helper in the time of his need?

Don't you know that every dollar that you send out of the Peninsula for merchandise is sent to strangers—to men who never spend a dollar here—to men who would not trust you for a box of matches—to men who would turn you over to the police if you should enter their offices?

You don't save much, frequently nothing, when you send your money away, and you take all the risk yourself of short weight or measure and of getting damaged or inferior goods. And don't you know that the growth and prosperity of the Monterey Peninsula depend very largely upon the success and prosperity of the home merchants? Out-of-town people judge us by the appearance of our stores and the degree of enterprise shown by our merchants. And our home merchants cannot succeed unless home folks give them loyal support.

Americans Great Art Patrons

Americans purchased more art works in Europe last year than in any year since the beginning of the war, estimates for the year fixing the value of such importations at $33,000,000. [illegible] ing interest in the United States for material of this character, or to greater willingness on the part of Europeans to permit their treasures to pass to other parts of the world is a moot quesion.

Importations of art works in the four years since the war have averaged $26,000,000 a year, compared with approximately $17,000,000 annually during the period of the war.

In 1921, the latest complete year for which figures are available, importation of art works "more than 100 years old," aggregated $13,000,000 out of the total of $22,000,000. Original paintings, drawings and pen sketches formed $5,000,000 and the remaining $4,000,000 worth included statuary, stained and painted window glass, and a limited number of works produced by American artists residing temporarily abroad.

Temple of Moon God Uncovered

Recent advices from the director of the joint archaelogical expedition sent to the ancient city of Ur, in Babylonia, by the University of Pennsylvania and the British museum, show that the temple of the moon god has been almost completely uncovered and that the main wall of the temenos, or enclosure, has been traced for a considerable distance. Inscriptions and tables have been found in large numbers. The tables are of unbaked clay and highly fragile. Mr. Woolley has devised a new method for their preservation, which is more elaborate than any hitherto applied.

The few tables that have been examined so far are of the Sumerian period, about 2000 B. C., and relate to accounts, money and so forth. It is impossible, however, to estimate their value until they have been subjected to a more careful examination. Sculptures of some size were discovered toward the close of the excavations, but particulars of these have not yet been received.

Under a floor of the Persian period (6500 B. C.) a hoard of jewelry was found. It included gold and silver bracelets, gold rings, a gold statuette of a woman, silver bowls, necklaces of semi-precious stones, and other objects.

California Poet Honored

A bust of Joaquin Miller, California poet, was unveiled a few days ago in the studio of Gertrude Boyle, New York sculpturess. The bust is to be placed by the California Society in the poet's cabin, now located at Rock Creek Park, Washington, D. C. Miss Boyle is said to be the only sculptor who modeled Miller while he was living. He posed in the familiar sombrero and careless rustic style of dress characteristic of the Poet of the Sierra.

When we learn how the people of other states and of the various countries of Europe honor the memory of Joaquin Miller we are prone to wonder whether poets, like prophets, "are not without honor save in their own country." Far too many of us in California have failed to keep green the memory of this picturesque pioneer of early California. Whatever the merit or lack of merit of his poems from a literary standpoint, he was essentially a lover of God's out of doors who told to the best of his ability of the wonders of California.

Another Lieerary Roundup

"The Lariat" is the name of a new western magazine which is edited by Col. E. Hofer, a veteran thinker and journalist. It calls itself on the title page the "only western literary monthly" and also "a monthly roundup of western discussion devoted to higher standards of literature on broad cultural lines of expression." It is issued from Salem, Oregon.

Despite bold and rugged westernism of title, the Lariat seems to be extremely conservative in literary matters, and does considerable petty snipe-shooting at Amy Lowell, Sherwood Anderson, and other energetic writers of the modern school. Here is one remark by the editor which is simply absurd: "Going over great names of European writings one is impressed with the infinite talent for triviality possessed by foreigners." If this statement were worthy of an answer it would be that the statement impresses one with the infinite talent for provincialism possessed by some Americans.

However, the new magazine seems honest and courageous, and we wish it the best of luck. The silliness of the remark about "foreigners" is somewhat compensated for, too, by the following clever and truthful remark: "Political editorials require a clear, lucid and ambiguous style."
